

“Both Needed and Threatened:” Armed Mother Imagery in Militant Visuals Supplemental Materials

Armed mother images listed in Table 1:

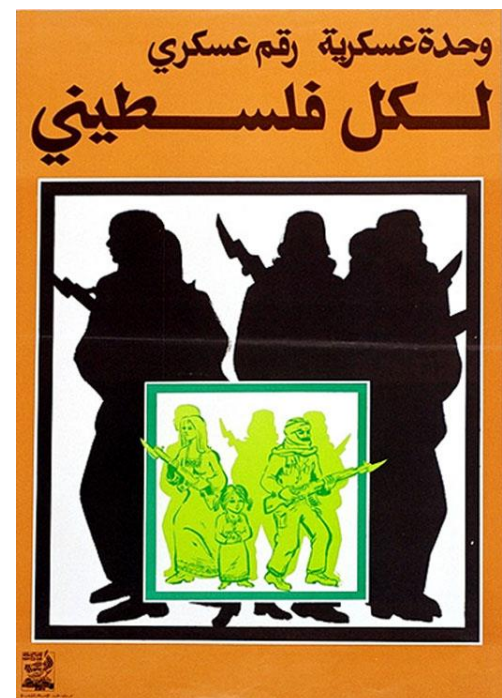

1976, Fatah; Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO).
Adnan Al Sharif, Palestinian.

Source: Palestine Poster Project Archives

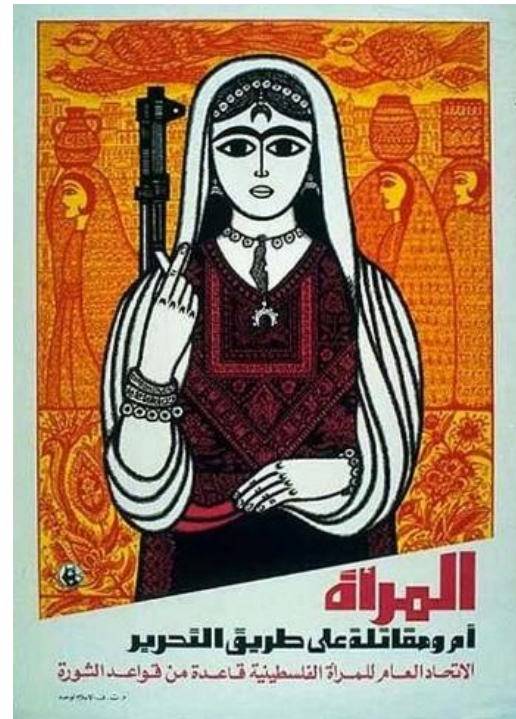

1981, Palestinian Liberation Organization
(PLO); Youssef Abdelki, Syrian

Source: Palestine Poster Project Archives

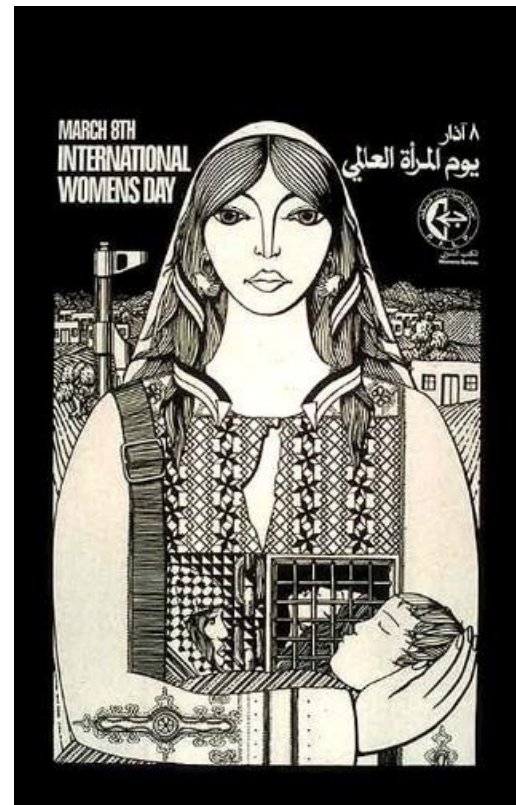

1978, Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO),
Burhan Karkoutly, Syrian

Source: Palestine Poster Project Archives

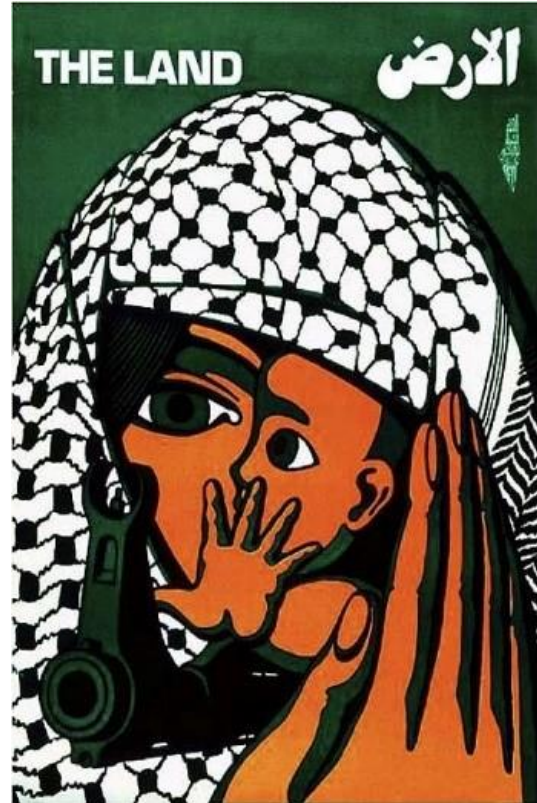

1980, Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine
(PFLP), Marc Rudin (a.k.a Jihad Mansour), Swiss

Source: Palestine Poster Project Archives

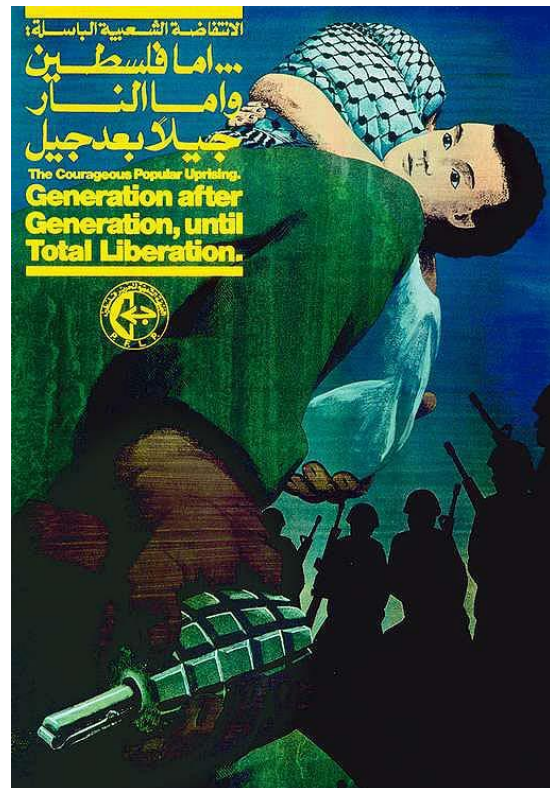

1986, Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP), Marc Rudin (a.k.a Jihad Mansour), Swiss

Source: Palestine Poster Project Archives

1989, Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP), Marc Rudin (a.k.a Jihad Mansour), Swiss

Source: Palestine Poster Project Archives

2004, Hamas

Source: Filasteen al-Muslimah

1985, Hizbollah

Source: Signs of Conflict Archive

1970s, Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA)

Source: Hoover Institution Library & Archives

1970s, Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA)

Source: New York Public Library

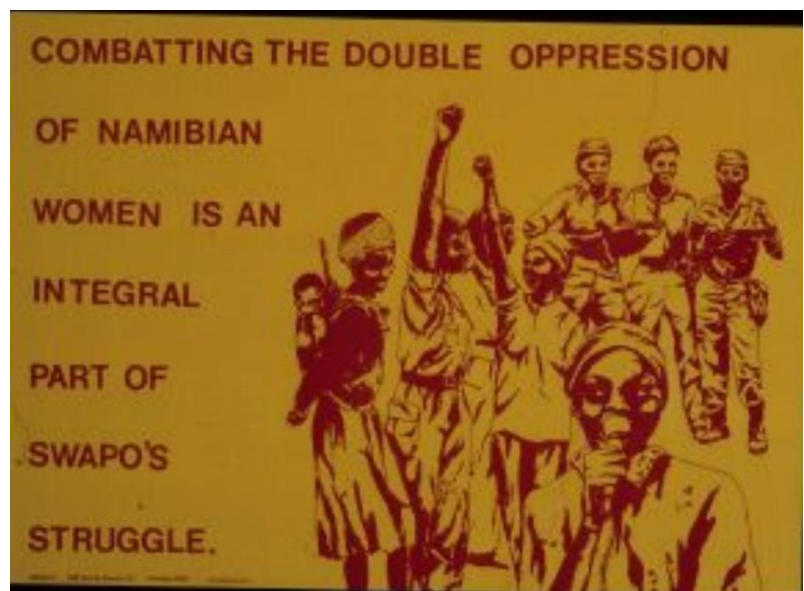

1975, Namibia Support Committee in conjunction with the South West People's Organization (SWAPO)

Source: African Activist Archive

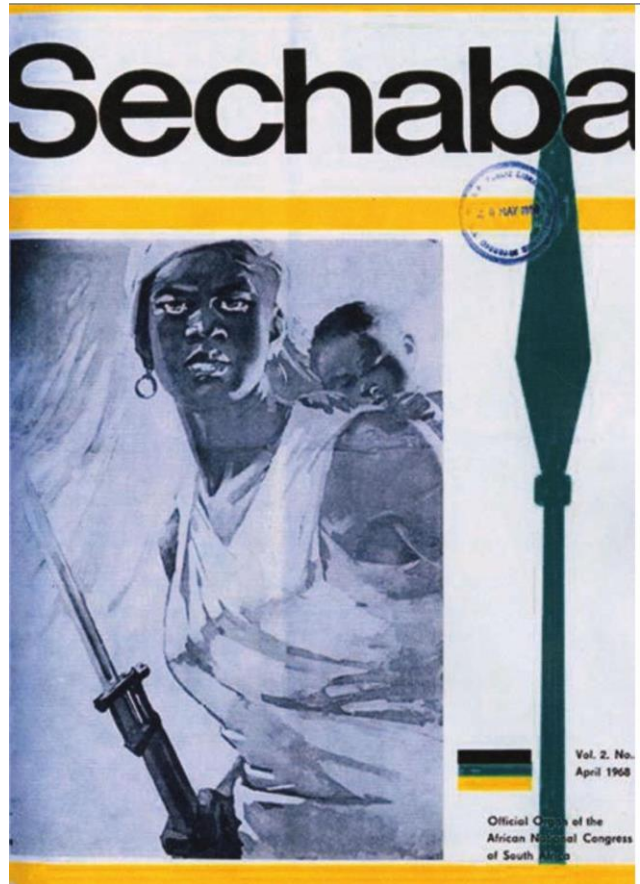

1980s, South West People's Organization (SWAPO)

Source: Hoover Institution Library & Archives

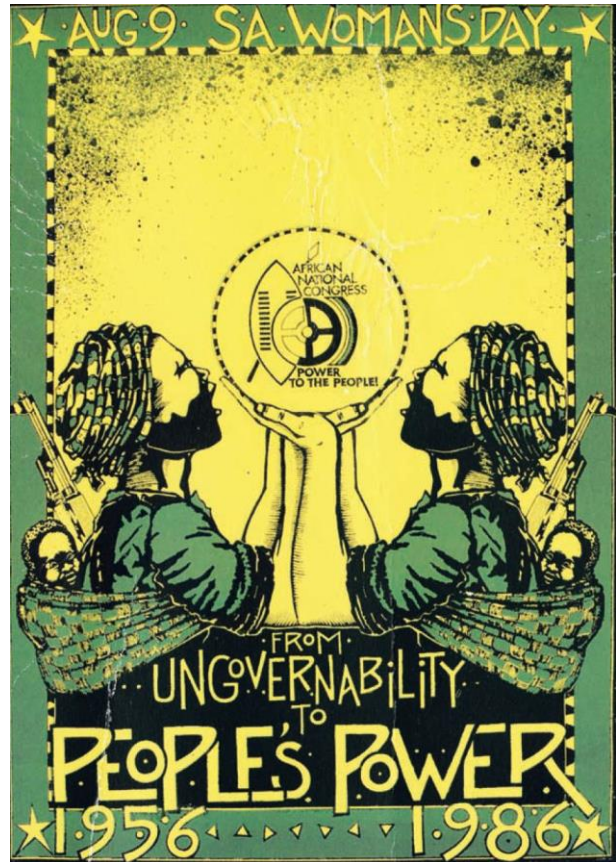

1968, African National Congress (ANC)

Source: Miller K (2009) Moms with Guns: Women's Political Agency in Anti-Apartheid Visual Culture. African Arts 42(2): 68-75

1986, African National Congress (ANC)

Source: Miller K (2009) Moms with Guns: Women's Political Agency in Anti-Apartheid Visual Culture. African Arts 42(2): 68-75

1980s, Sandinista National Liberation Front (FSLN), Sandinista Children's Association

Source: BBC News

1985, Sandinista National Liberation Front (FSLN), AMNLAE

Source: Hoover Institution Library & Archives

